

Donaldson supplied GDX filter houses for General Electric's trailer-mounted gas turbine power generators and large power plant units, all used to restore power to Iraq's electricity grid. The turbines were made portable to be able to go wherever needed.

